Alkali in Soap Bad for the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it. The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulstified coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use. One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage. You can get mulstified coconut oil at any pharmacy; it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—(Adv.)

AND BARONESS ZOLLNER SMILES HAPPILY AS SHE TAKES HER LEAVE

Harbors No Malice and Snaps Picture of Former Jailer. Goes Back Home to New York to the Baby Girl Waiting There.

Back at 780 Madison avenue, New York City, Baroness Zollner will soon see her little daughter, Nonie. Of all things that was foremost on her mind during her confinement she said that her chief worry had been the little girl. All of the spirits in her personality were tickling her lips into smiles when she told her Chattanooga friends goodbye Monday morning. Her sense of humor, which has never been subdued even for a minute, played over her experience in Chattanooga and she was inclined to think of it lightly. She said that she could not refrain from laughing when she looked back upon some of the things that had happened. Sunday afternoon she and her son, Bedford, went to the county jail and there took snap shots of Jailer Whitcomb, "Dopey" Reedy and E. K. Coomb. She said Monday morning that they had made a fine attempt to keep her comfortable and that she wanted their pictures to put in her memoirs. While she was at the jail she met the good ladies who had sung outside her cell those four Sundays that she was in confinement there. They called her "sister" and said that they had been praying for her and that they were glad that she was free. One of the group wept as the baroness kissed her.

Baroness Zollner is characterized by her happiness and humor. The one word that describes her nature is "laughter." She never fails to laugh when she has an opportunity and often hunts the humorous side of her predicament to dispel her worries. She is not a schemer. She has fallen into financial difficulties that she could have avoided if she had possessed more of that quality. Her nature is free and asserts itself openly. Her friends have always been of that type. Her life has been filled to overflowing with gardens, villas, music,

HARRY ESKEW FAVORS PASTEURIZATION OF MILK Advises No Radical Steps but Says to Pasteurize Is Ideal Plan.

Harry L. Eskew, commissioner of the food and drug department for Tennessee, talked Monday on pasteurization for Chattanooga. In referring to the local milk situation Mr. Eskew, who was in the city Monday, said that he was in favor of pasteurization, but not to the extent of reducing the milk supply. He said that in his opinion it would be much better to have an adequate inspection of the dairies than to have the pasteurized milk regulations enforced, with probably the sanitary conditions just as poor as before. Pasteurization would not do away with dirt or filthy or tubercular cows, but in many cases just covers it up, he said. "There will be about fifteen or twenty of the dairymen in this district who will probably go out of business if they are forced to comply with the regulations," said Mr. Eskew, "and I believe that it would be much better to allow these dairymen to continue their business with a most strict sanitary inspection. Have a rule that they cannot sell a supply of milk in the city that has not been produced in clean, sanitary surroundings that have been inspected by health officials." Mr. Eskew approved of the double standard that has been spoken of by local citizens, which means both the pasteurized milk and the raw product, but favored having the latter approved by the city health officials. "Cleanliness does not cost as much as pasteurization," he said, but at the same time he added that of the two, the people at present should spend their money cleaning things up. The food and drug commissioner referred to the city of Memphis, which has an aviation camp located near there, where a large number of aviators are in training. The camp there has not enforced pasteurization, but is using the two standards. The government officials are using the pasteurized milk, and the citizens either the raw or the pasteurized.

CHICAGO POLICE BAFFLED BY GIRL OF MANY NAMES

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Government agents yesterday professed they had been unable to obtain information of any value from the girl arrested here last week with a suitcase full of dynamite. They are calling her "Joel Lind" now instead of Linda or Laura Jose, as at first reported, but were by no means convinced that any of these was her true name. The girl is in jail at Waukegan, where, it was said, she seemed to enjoy parrying the questions of law officers.

How to keep the richness in and expense out of baking has been a problem. Housekeepers every day are solving this problem with whole-some Cottolene.

Home-made cakes are coming into fashion again. And the very latest fashion in delicious cakes is to use economical Cottolene instead of expensive butter—one-third less, too, than of butter.

RECIPE

1 cup sugar baking powder
1 cup milk 1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

3 tablespoons boiling water

Cream Cottolene, add sugar gradually, stirring constantly. Add chocolate melted and cooled with hot water until smooth. Add vanilla of eggs well beaten. Mix together flour, baking powder and salt, and add alternately in first mixture with milk. Lastly the beating and stiffly beaten whites. Bake 15 minutes in layer cake pan. Finish with white icing.

Get the Habit of Drinking Hot Water Before Breakfast

Says we can't look or feel right with the system full of poisons.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles if you could believe how hot water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if not eliminated every day become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the sick result is poisons and toxins, which are then absorbed into the blood, causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, nervous blood and all sorts of ailments. People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can't get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will not only be very little, but is sufficient to make any one a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.—(Adv.)
